Addressing the Urban Water Crisis

To help mitigate the water crisis for urban inhabitants, a straightforward formula is provided for calculating rainwater harvesting targets in major South Asian cities. page 14

Bihar's Undertrials

Most of the undertrials in prison under the Bihar Excise and Prohibition Act are from marginalised groups and are imprisoned under exaggerated charges due to procedural lapses. page 38

Fiscal management stands at a crossroads with the changing contours of the union–state fiscal relationship, alongside the emerging need for rationalising subsidies to generate additional fiscal space for inclusive growth. pages 14, 52

Manoeuvring Statistics

What do the incidents of suppression of statistics reflect upon: the dwindling credibility of India's official statisticians, or a failing political will? page 10

Indigeneity Puzzle of the North East

The government's discriminatory citizenship policies towards the "indigenous" communities in Manipur and Assam reaffirm that the answer to this cultural conundrum is essentially political. pages 18, 61

Pay to Use

Poorer, unrecognised and newly recognised slums pay more user charges on public toilets, potentially to mitigate the inertia of public investments for upgradation of sanitation facilities therein. page 38

Growing City, Dying River

Mere acquiescence to judicial orders falls flat in the absence of political will, as seen by the Sabarmati's plight due to Ahmedabad's ecologically non-compliant city infrastructure. page 33
