POSTSCRIPT

Women Millworkers in Tamil Nadu

Though the state, capitalists, and unions tried to constrain them to traditional gender roles, women workers were not merely made by politics as they forged agency for themselves and expanded the degree of freedoms. page 40

Curbing Big Tech

Supremacist tendencies of big tech need to be challenged through state actions to break their monopolies and limit their presence. page 12

New Segregation in Education

The segmented schooling system in the context of privatisation reinforces existing stratifications and entrenches the association of students across various socio-economic strata with different school types. page 33

Federalism and Union Budget

The union government is curbing the financial independence and developmental abilities of the states by reducing the divisible pool and imposing constraints on market borrowing. page 14

Politics of Petroleum Prices

The impact of global crude oil prices and exchange rates is observed to be different across the three different political regimes from 2002 to the present. page 49

Whither Dravidian Ethos?

The challenges for the two Dravidian parties in articulating a political vision rooted in Dravidian-Tamil commonsense appealing to a transforming economy and society are examined. page 14

Modernising MSP

The solution to the minimum support price conundrum is in its extension to ensure a decentralised procurement system in a diverse range of crops, without compromising the farmers' interests. page 37

India's Knowledge Landscape

The institutions of education, current research, and social profiles of Infosys Prize awardees as proxy indicators reveal the current state of knowledge in public institutions and the biases therein. page 31

The Real Trajectory of Growth

An assessment of the trajectory of growth in India during 1950–2020 finds that while hurdles to growth do exist, they cannot be overcome by shifting to a more liberal policy regime alone. page 43

Democracy in the Market

The novel form of collective action that resulted in the battle of GameStop is here to stay and has revealed that democracy in financial markets is just a myth. page 10

POSTSCRIPT

Uttarakhand Disasters

The absence of necessary monitoring and early warning systems, and the lack of any accountability or ability to learn lessons from disasters act as force multipliers during such disasters. page 13

Protecting Medical Personnel

The causes of violence against medical personnel are highlighted, even as the Indian legislation on the subject is deficient and in urgent need of amendments. page 54

Modern Monetary Theory

The linkages of the international monetary system with shifts in global imbalances are discussed, as modern monetary theory rises in the wake of the global financial crisis and COVID-19. page 31

Ambedkarite Public Culture

Mumbai's Ambedkarite public culture and the spatial distribution of Dalits and their community associations, which prepared the ground for the movement for Dalit liberation, are analysed. page 39

An Unequal Education

The people-oriented vision of education as empowerment is lost in a National Education Policy, 2020 that seeks to build skills for the global market, while strengthening traditional inequalities. page 17

FORBES 30 UNDER 30

59 | Paving the Way

As the northern hemisphere settles in for a long pandemic winter, there are bright spots on the horizon. Hundreds of them. The 600 young activists, entertainers, entrepreneurs and scientists selected for the 30 Under 30 as featured in the U.S. edition of Forbes give everyone reason to hope.

By Alexandra Wilson

74 | Travis Scott's Corporate Shadow

Three years ago, the hip-hop superstar made the Forbes 30 Under 30 based on his music credentials. Now he's helping major companies rethink their brands—and changing how celebrities and corporations interact.

By Abram Brown

INNOVATION

82 | Small Ball Biotech

Most drug-development outfits spend years chasing the elusive billion-dollar blockbuster. AbCellera Biologics concentrates on base hits—a focus that has made founder Carl Hansen an overnight Covid-19 billionaire.

By Alex Knapp

FEATURES

86 | Making Millions From Bezos' Billions

Deep-pocketed investors are rushing to bet on Amazon's third-party sellers. The stampede will change retail forever.
